The News FROM THE CRIMEA.

The Ocurrier de Marcelles of the 7th inst. publishes the following letter, written before Sebastopol en the 25th ult:

I have only one fact worth communicating to you. General Canrobert is going to lend our friends, the English, two of our divisions to strengthen them in their positions. It is an excellent measure, which will have the double effect of reinforcing our allies and augmenting the general security. Our regiments of Chasseurs d'Afrique are alveady installed on the right of the English intreachments. I have not yet heard where the regiments of infantry are to be stationed. On the morning of the 21stl the weather was so mild that the bands of the Chasseurs played several Freuch airs, which seemed greatly to please the English, who had been a long time deprived of that recreation. The sound of our instruments must have been heard in Sebastopol. The Russians were, no doubt, surprised to find us so merry and replying to their infernal uproar by melodious symphonies. Our regiment has suffered little, we are to do the cloded in subterranean excavations, from which we contrive to keep out the cold. We sleep little, but smoke a great feat. Our cookery fills with its vapors our uncivilized and primitive abode, and our physical appearance is quite in keeping with it. Our beards have grown facely, and acquired a developement calculated to excite the envy of the oldest sepasor. As for our accourtements, thanks to the distribution of fars, they have become as comfertable as peasible. Cleanliness, showever, is out of the question. One of our sergants, who had recoived the military medal for his first exploits in the Crimes, has been named Chavaller of the legion of Honor. This brave soldier has been wounded thirteen times, and is as ready as ever to meet the Cossacks. He will soon have that satisfaction, for we occupy the most advanced position. The plan of our Generals evidently tends to invest the city as completely as possible. It is indispensable, if we wish to obtain at last a result last a result, to isolate the garrison, which has hither to been able to renew its personnel and supplies of every description.

Another letter, dated Kamissch, 26th uit., says:—
General Canrobert visited yesterday the works thrown up by the navy slong the coast. He appeared greatly satisfied with the promptitude and skill with which those works were constructed, and addressed to our men his warmest congratulations on the devotedness and activity they displayed there and on every other point where their services were required. Our seamen were electrified by the soul stirring language of the General in-Chief, and loudly cheered him. I must do General Carrobert the justice to say, that he takes every epportunity of rendering justice to our navy, whose immense services he duly appreciates. On that account, whenever he gives an order it is immediately executed by our sailors with inconceivable alacrity. I have just returned from a visit to the camps, where I felt quite overpowered by the inexpressible feeling of pride and emotion excited in me by the manner in which our soldiers supported their sufferings. At the first ray of the magnificent sun we have enjoyed during the last days, all seemed to have forgotten their past misery, and, like the swans shaking off the rain that has failen on their feathers, our brave fellows shook off the cold, the rain, and the row, and they now laugh, sing, and await with eagerness an opportunity to cross bayonets with the enemy. Everybody will tell you also that if Admiral Brust watches day and nght with the utmost solicitude over the welfare of his seamen, General Canrobert secreties the same viglance, and attends with equal care to the health and comfort of his soldiers. Those two men wish to see everything with their own eyes, and nothing escapes them. Thus, General Canrobert secreties the same of he 26 Reneral Canrobert secreties the same of the 26 Reneral Canrobert secreties the same of the 26 Reneral Canrobert secreties of the same than the fair than the wish the secreties of beverages. Everybody applicated that wise measure, which was instantly carried into effect.

OPFICIAL REPORTS OF GENERAL CANROBERT.
FRENCH CAMP, BUFORE SERRITORO, Jun. 17, 1855.
On the night between the 14th and 15th, a Russian column, of about five hundred men, attacked our third parallel, which was defended by the second battalion of the 74th Regiment of the line. The assailants' attempt was met by the Grenadler Company, Capt. Boutor, and the 1st company, Capt. Castelnau. Both these officers were killed at the head of their troops, exhibiting to all an example of firmness and bravery, which was imitated. A section of the 3d company of volunteers, under the orders of Lieut. Boutet and Sergeant Hagusis, hastened to the place of conflict, in which they took a glorious part and one that adds to the distinguished services which the volunteers have already rendered before Sebastopol. The same behavior marked a company of voltigeurs of the 95th Regiment. The chef de battalion Roumejoux, of the 74th, contending personally on the parapet, and calling on his men to ma'ntain the honor of their fag, gave proof of remarkable bravery. He was seriously wounded. All the troops engaged daplayed the most brillant energy, and this action will raise still higher the glorious reputation which the 74th has achieved in the army since the commencement of the siege.

The General, CANROBERT.

January 24, 1856.

The Minister of War has received the following despatches from Gen. Canrobert.

The first was dated January 24, and was received at Bucharest on February 3.

The weather has become much milder and finer. The trops have supported the trying days we have just gone through with admirable courage; their confidence was never shaken for one moment by the extreme severity of the temperature. We have reasen to hope that the depth of the winter in the Crimas is past. We resume our work before the town with renewed activity.

CANROBERT.

BEFORE SERREFFORD. Jan. 28. 1855.

Gen. Ulrich and the voltigeurs of the Imperial Guard have arrived. The troops are animated with an excellent spirit, and are full of enthusiasm. The weather continues fine; we take advantage of it to complete outworks. Gen. Niel and Colonel de Waubert Genits have arrived.

worse. Gen. Set and Colones de Wateset Sente Save arrived.

THE DESPATCH OF LORD RAGLAN.
BRYONGE SERRATOPOL, Jan. 23, 1855.

TO THE DUKE OF NAWCASTLE:

Nothing has occurred of importance in our front, but the enemy has occasionally opened a fire upon our left attack, and Mr. Spalding, a fine young man, an acting mate of her Majesty's ship London, and in charge of the battery, was unfortunately killed by a round shot, the day before jesterday. His loss is deeply deplored. I enclose the return of casualties to the Zist inst.

The weather has become milder; but the country is still in a dreadful state from melted snow.

The army is well supplied with warm clothing, and if the Commissariat were adequately provided with transports, and the huts could be at once brought up, there would be no other cause of suffering than the severily of a Crimean winter, and the duties imposed of carrying on a seige in such a climate at this season of the year.

LORD PALMERSTON AND THE EUROPEAN REVOLUTIONISTS.

Considerable speculation exists in Europe as to Palmerston's feelings towards the European revolution. He is claimed by some, even leaders of the people, as the friend of democracy—as the sympathiser with Hungary and Italy. There is a letter exists of his, to which I recall your attention at this juncture, the more so that its existence has been denied. In Angust 20th, 1848, Manin, the President of the Republic of Venice—the belieguered city of the sea, then at its last extremity, made a pathetic appeal to the British government—et forth the straits to which the citizens were reduced—expressed their self-devotion—their hatred of Austrian miscale—their earnest appeal to the great British nation to interpose diplomatically for their deliverance. While Lord Palmerston's answer to this appeal was waited, hope buoyed up the Venctians. At length, on the 16th October the answer arrived, and here it is, in its precise words.

ber the answer arrived, and here it is, in its precise words.

LE VICOMTE PALMERSTON A M. MANIN.

FORDON. OFFICE, 16 Octobre 1848

MONSTRUE—J'al eu l'honneur de resevoir votre lettre du 20 août dernier, dans laquelle vous vous inliqueze les rapports de Venies avec l'empire d'Autriche, et ou vous priez le gouvernement de Sa Majeste d'employer ses efforts pour empecher cette ville de retomber sous la domination au'richien.

J'ai à vous apprendre que dans les propositions faites au gouvernement d'Autriche par le gouvernement britannique, pour le pacification de l'Italie, il ne s'en trouve pas qui demande que Venie cesse d'appartenir a in couronne impiriale, et qu'il serait consequement age de la part des Venctiens d'entrer en arrangement avec le gouvernement autrichien.

Je suis, etc.

MINISTERIAL APPOINTMENT—THE BRITISH PATRIOTIC FUND—GAPT. GURSON AND THE NEW YORK GENALD. A correspondent of the London News, writing from the Higgs on February 6, says Captain de Smit van den Broccke has been charged by the King with the Port folio of Marine.

the Hague on February 6, says tapking with the Port Broccke has been charged by the King with the Port I colo of Marine.

The subscription opened in this country in aid of the British Fatriotic Fund has just been close. The total amount subscribed is about 4,000 florins (£340).

The Fournal des Pauy-Bas recommends that Captain Gibson should be put on his trial again in this coantry. For doing this, and for reproducing the correspondence as originally published in the New Yone Henato, the ministerial papers accuse the Journal des Pays-Bas of a want of patrioties. It would un loubtelly be fruitful of inconvenience if a verdict once given by a colonial court could at any time be appealed against in a home-court of justice; but Gibson's trial in Batavia has been chroughout such an entire piece of judicial burgling, such a complicated network of acquittals and committals, that the course suggested, if adoptet, could hardly—on account of its very exceptional character—be twisted into a precedent.

mittals, that the course suggested that the course suggested that the course suggested that the approach that singularly fretful and pugnacious journal, the New York Herath, has in a recent number taken for the text of a slashing commentary the Dutch-American correspondence for refibers. It certainly does not say much for the conscious rectitude of this government, which complains of the injustice of the claim advanced by America in behalf of one of its citizens, that it has allowed that correspondence to be first communicated to the world by means of the American press. Perhaps, however, we ought not to judge of diplomatic proceedings by the rules by which we guessally form our opinions of mean and measures. On reading this correspondence, the unglassaste castwiction forces itself upon the mind that the whole affect is strongly insted with jobberg. An ambience (the First), with which he proceeds to the island of Sunaire.

In the cabin of this schooner a letter is written in the Malay language, signed by Gibsen, but designated by him as being "in conception and in style, the most purelle and most imbeelle assemblage of absardities that ever emanated from the brain of a Malay scribe." This letter he alleges to have been written by two Malays, agies of the Dutch government, for the purpose of guiting the hapless citizen into trouble. The Dutch authorities, however, got possession of this latter, and managed to ground upon it a charge of high treason against Gibson for having endeswered to persuade the Sultan of Djambi to make a demonstration against Dutch authority. The writer, or rather the signer, of this latter, who professes not to have understood a syllable of the language in which it was written, was accordingly made prisoner, and sent too kavris for which period he was five times acquisited by the Batavian court of justice, and as often declared guilty by the Superior Court.

A short time, however, before the final decision of this court was made known, Gibson, who had had a hint of the course things were likely to take, managed to make his excaps to America. There he represented to Mr. Marcy the persecutions to which he had been conflicated. For these losses he makes a claim on Holland, where the second processes in the superior Court.

A short time, however, before the ship and cargo had been conflicated. For these losses he makes a claim on Holland for an indemnification of ship and the superior Court.

A stream of th vernment of jobbery; and, to complete the climax of the rough chorrors, the Naw York Herand is getting very angry on the subject.

Markets.

London Money Market, Friday evening, Feb. 9.—The dulness which prevails in every branch of trade througheut the country is manifested equally in the Stock Exchange, and the transactions to day have been wholly unimportant. Consols for money opened at the price to which they recoded yeaterday afternoom—namely, 90% to 91—but subsequently improved to 01 to ½, at which they remained up to the close of business. For the account the last quotation was 91½. There was no fresh foreign is tillgence, and the chief subject of anticipation during the next few days will be the nature of the Ministerial statements to be looked for on the reassembling of Farliament. Bank stock left off at 212 to 313; reduced, 91% to 3½; new three per cents, 91% to 3½ long annuities, 43; india stock, 221 to 24; India bonds, 12s. to 16s.; and exchequer bills, 6s. to 9s. premium.

There was little activity in foreign securities. French scrip closed 3½ to 4 premium; and Furkish was nominally quoted 76 to ½.

In the foreign exchanges this afternoon there was no alteration of importance.

The last accounts from the Paris Bourse this evening, exhibit a trising declina. At Vienna there has been no material alteration, but the appearance of the money market is rather less unfavorable.

The rates of exchange at the various continental cities continue with a steady appearance, especially at Paris, whence the quotation to-day is very tirm.

The announcement this morning that a proclamation had been ordered to be issued "against holding intercourse with the Queen's enemies," caused a sudden rise in the markets for Russian produce. Tellow has advanced 2s. to 2s. 6d. per cwt., and holders of hemp are unwilling to sell.

BROWN, SHIPLEY & CO.'S CIRCULAR.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 9, 1855.

We have had another dull week in cotton, with a dragging market, at last week's prices—spinners purchasing from day to day just sufficient to supply their immediate wants. The wind still continues in the east, keeping out a large fleet of cotton laden veasels, and limiting the import to the small quantity of 11,000 bales. The sales for the week ending last evening are estimated at 35,880 bales—speculators taking 1,200 and experters 2,300 bales. To-day the business is called 5,000, with a heavy feeling, at the following quotations: —Fair Orleans, 5%; raid Mobiles and Uplands, 5%; middling Gricans, 5%; middling Mobiles and Uplands, 5; ordinary, 4 a 4%; interior, 3 a 4d.

Orleans, 5%; middling aboutes and Opianos, 5%; oroinsry, 4a 4%; inferior, 3 a 4d.

The stock of cotton in this port is 405,000 bales, of which 181,000 are American, against 629,000 at this period last year, of which 314,000 were American.

The money market continues tight, and we cannot report the slightest improvement in Manchester, the demand for yarns and goods being so limited that prices are not fairly tested, and must be considered quite nominal.

WEDNASDAY, Feb. 21-6 P. M. WEDNASDAY, Feb. 21—6 P. M.
The tendency was upward from the opening this morning. There was no particular movement ex cept in Reading, which was quite active at the advance. Erie, Harlem and Central were comparatively quiet, but better prices were realized. At the first board Erie bonds, 1875, advanced i per cent; first board Erie bonds, 1875, advanced ‡ per cent; Illinois Central bonds, ‡; New York Central bonds, ‡; New York Central Bonds, ‡; New York Central Reliroad, ‡; Cumberland Coal, ‡; New York Central Reliroad, ‡; Erie Reliroad, ‡; Reading Raliroad, ‡. Erie bonds, 1871, fell off ‡ per cent. Of raliroad bonds, Ellinois Central were the most active, at an improvement in prices. There was a bear sale at 70, seller's option, six months. Quite a large business was transacted in railroad bonds at the first board to day. There are now on the market three classes of New York Central bonds, half a dozen classes of Erie, two of Illinois Central, three of Hudson River, two of Panama, and so on. of Hudson River, two of Illinois Central, three of Hudson River, two of Panams, and so on. Bonds of nearly all the Western railroads are in this market, and the supply of each description is at all times sure to be equal to the demand. The question of usury having been raised on railroad bonds issued at twenty and thirty per cent below par, has induced those interested to examine the law on the subject, and we find in some of our evening cotemporaries an extract from the stantage of ning cotemporaries an extract from the statutes of Illinois and New York, on the point alluded to: —

Passed April 6, 1850.

Chapter 172.

Ist. No corporation shall hereafter interpose the definee of usury in any action.

2d. The term corporation, as used in this act, shall be construed to include all associations and joint stock companies having any of the powers and privileges of corporations not possessed by individuals or parinerable.

2d. This act shall take effect immediately.

2d. This act shall take effect immediately.

LAW OF THE STATE OF ILLINOIS.

Approved February 11, 1853

Lat. That no corporation shall hereafter interpose the defence of usury in any action.

2d. The term corporation, as used in this act, shall be construed to include all associations and joint stock companies baving any of the powers and privileges of corporations not possessed by individuals or partnerships.

3d. This act shall take effect from and after its passage.

We have not lost wight of these laws and on the contraction of these laws and on the contraction.

3d. This act shall take effect from and after its passage.

We have not lost sight of these laws, and our remarks were made with a full knowledge of the purport and meaning of each. These laws are proper and just. It is very seldom that the managers of an incorporated company who were parties to the neurious acts, put in that plea to destroy the debt; hence there existed very little necessity for the passage of the above act. No company in the convention of the second control of asge of the above act. No company in its corporate capacity can put in the plea of neary for the repudistion of any indebtedness it may have created. Such a restriction was advocated by incorporated companies, and it is well enough as a check upon railroad managers; but it 'goes no further; it by no means frees the bondholders from the dangers of such a plea. Any stockholder can put in the plea of usury, and when we find such men as form the sto kholders of the New York and New Haven Railroad Company putting in su h a pleato get rid of an honest and just claim, there will never be want-ing individuals willing to do the dirty work of incorrorated companies who may want their services.
According to the law of this State, quoted above, the New York and New Haven Railroad Company, in its corporate capacity, is debarred from putting in the pies of usury in any action; botwithstanding which we find a suit commenced in the Supreme Court, by the New York and New Haven Bailroad Company, sgainst the holders of the over-issued stock, in which that plea is made a very important point in the complaint. The law says that "no cor-poration shall bereafter interpose the defence of usury in any action." The New York and New Haven Railroad is a corporation chartered by the Legislature of this State, and our laws regulate it. It is true that but a portion of its property is in this State, but all its rights and privileges derived from our laws are sufficient to give them great control over the entire interests of the corporation. So the company will find before it gets through with its company will find before it gets through with its swindling operations.
